

Aquatic Species Imaging

In this session we will briefly discuss how imaging of different aquatic animal species is achieved considering species-specific anatomical limitations and safety for personal and radiological equipment, important species-specific anatomical variations and their normal appearance using different imaging modalities, and examples of common imaging diagnoses in fish, turtles, pinnipeds and cetacea.